MEET THE SOUTHERN IOWA GRAZING CONFERENCE SPEAKERS

Steve Campbell

Steve Campbell has been in the cattle industry his whole life. Steve understands the complexities of producing premium beef. From soil health, quality forage production, nutrition, mineral intake, stock selection, calving and more Steve works with producers to find ways to improve their operation and get better results. Much like people source business coaches, Steve is a "cattle coach" and will assist you in reaching higher levels of success with your beef herd.

Wesley Tucker

Wesley Tucker is a field specialist in agricultural business and policy with University of Missouri Extension. Wesley has a BS and MS in agricultural economics from the University of Missouri specializing in beef marketing systems. He has 21 years of experience working directly with Missouri livestock producers on business planning and marketing issues. He works with an extensive network of producers throughout the state.

Bruce Shanks

Bruce Shanks has been involved in the livestock industry his whole life. Bruce was raised on a diversified livestock farm in Southeast Missouri. He and his wife, Sunshine, own and reside on Sassafras Valley Ranch in Belle, MO where they raise livestock under a managed-intensive grazing system on 620 owned and 1,000 leased acres.

Abram Bowerman

Abram Bowerman a grass farmer from Missouri who is bootstrapping a sheep operation self financed and fully employed promoting natural low labor solutions for challenges facing full-time shepherds. He grazes multi-species with sheep as the centerpiece.

Nick Wallace

Nick Wallace is one of the founders of Wallace Farms. Raised in a small Iowa community, Nick graduated from the University of Iowa before tackling a year of culinary training. Nick leads the company, and is the driving force behind product procurement, new business development, customer service and strategic planning.

"Your resources are grass, livestock, and money. It is hard to have too much grass or money but real easy to have too much livestock."
